SEATTLE — Northgate Mall had its grand reopening this weekend, celebrating the addition of 100,000 square feet of retail space with a pedestrian focus.

Callison provided the master planning and architectural design on the project that includes new public plazas, restaurants and outdoor retail spaces along the west side of the mall. Callison worked with mall owner Simon Property Group to create an urban village, with three distinct public plazas connecting the new retail space with the mall's entry points.

A series of rain gardens and bioswales were built into the parking lot on the mall's west side and Callison said it is now Seattle's largest sustainable lot.

Retailers in the expansion include Panera Bread, Barnes & Noble, The Ram Restaurant & Brewery, Starbucks and Gene Juarez Salon and Spa.

Callison designed an interior remodel at Northgate in 1997.
